The Call of the Cumberlands

By Charles Neville Buck

With Illustrations from Photographs of Scenes in the Play

(Copyright, 1913, by W. J. Watt & Co.)

SYNOPSIS.

On Misery creek Sally Miller finds George Lescott, a landscape painter, unconscious Jesse Purvy of the Hollman clan has been shot and Samson denies it. The shooting breaks the truce in the Hollman-South feud. Lescott discovers artistic ability in Samson. Samson thrashes Tamarack Spicer and denounces him as the "truce-buster" who shot Purvy. Samson tells the South clan that he is going to leave the mountains. Lessott goes home to New York. Samson bids Spicer and Sally farewell and follows. In New York Samson studies art and learns much of city ways. Drennie Lescott persundes Wilfred Horton, her dilettante lover, to do a man's work in the world. Prompted by her love, Sally teaches herself to write. Horton throws himself into the business world and becomes well-hated by predatory financiers and politicians. At a Bohemian resort Samson meets William Farbish, sporty social parasite, and Horton's enemy. Farbish conspires with others to make Horton featous, and succeeds. Farbish brings Horton and Samson together at the Kenmore club's shoeting lodge, and forces an open rupture, expecting Samson to kill Horton and so rid the political and financial thus of the crusader. Samson exposes the plot and thrashes the conspirators. Samson is advised by his teachers to turn to portrait painting. Drennte commissions him to paint her portrait. Sally goes to school. e paint her portrait. Sally goes to school samson goes to Parls to study.

CHAPTER XII-Continued.

"No," she said, "we haven't done that, yet. I guess we won't.

both." time, and from below came the strains noiselessly with a snarling grin, stalkof the ship's orchestra. A few ulster- ing the man who was stalking him. muffled passengers gloomly paced the deck.

there, waiting."

fronts despair and pretends that every- short and certain range, but, instead able to elude the pickets and penetrate throat.

over. Really, I'm not, If Samson South proposed to me today, I know that I should refuse him. I am not at all sure that I am the least little bit in love with him. Only, don't you see I can't be quite sure I'm not? It would be horrible if we all made a to make up my mind for all time? I'll tell you then, dear, if you care to

CHAPTER XIII.

Tamarack Spicer sat on the top of a box car, swinging his legs over the side. He was clad in overalls, and in the pockets of his breeches reposed a bulging flask of red liquor, and an unbulging pay envelope. Tamarack had been "railroading" for several months this time. He had made a new record for sustained effort and industry, but now June was beckoning him to the mountains with vagabond yearnings for freedom and leisure. Many things had invited his soul. Almost four years had passed since Samson had left the mountains, and in four years a woman can change her mind. Sally might, when they met on man and agree to forget his faulty method of courtship. This time he would be more diplomatic. Yesterday and a free lance.

fellow-trainman came along the top of the car and sat down at Tamarack's side. This brakeman had also been recruited from the mountains, though

Virginia line. "So yer quittin'?" observed the newcomer. Spicer nodded.

"Goin' back thar on Misery?" Again Tamarack answered with a jerk of his head. "I've been layin' off ter tell ye some- He was a man. thin', Tam'rack."

"Cut her loose." "I laid over in Hixon last week, an' some fellers that used ter know my mother's folks took me down in the of. Ef this boy goes ter town he some licker." "What of hit?"

"They was talkin' bout you."

"What did they say?" "I seen that they was enemies of yours, an' they wasn't in no good hu- working for the Hollmans or the Purmor, so, when they axed me ef I vys. I know their breed." knowed ye, I lowed I didn't know ye out, or git in trouble myself." Tamarack cursed the whole Hollman tribe, and his companion went on: "Jim Asberry was thar. He lowed ly.

Furvy that time, an' he said"-the shore."

Tamarack scowled.

"Much obleeged," he replied. along the street toward the courtas it was broad daylight and he displayed no hostility, he knew he was safe-and he had plans.

Standing before the Hollman store were Jim Asberry and several companions. They greeted Tamarack af fably and he paused to talk.

"Ridin' over ter Misery?" inquired Asberry.

"'Lowed I mout as well."

"Mind of I rides with ye es fur es Jesse's place?"

"Plumb glad ter have company," drawled Tamarack.

They chatted of many things, and traveled slowly, but, when they came ride stirrup to stirrup each jockeyed for the rear position, and the man who over his shoulder, with wary, though seemingly careless, eyes. Each knew the other was bent on his murder,

At Purvy's gate Asberry waved farewell and turned in. Tamarack rode on, but shortly he hitched his horse in the concealment of a hollow, walled with huge rocks, and disappeared into the laurel.

He began climbing, in a crouched position, bringing each foot down noiselessly and pausing often to listen. Jim Asberry had not been outwardly armed when he left Spicer. But, soon, the brakeman's delicately attuned ears caught a sound that made him lie flat in the lee of a great log, where he was masked in clumps of flowering rhododendron. Presently Asberry passed him, also walking cautiously, but hurriedly, and cradling a Winchester rifle I think he'd rather stay outside, Wil- in the hollow of his arm. Then Tamafred. If I was sure I loved him, and rack knew that Asberry was taking that he loved me, I'd feel like a cheat this cut to head him off and waylay -there is the other girl to think of. him in the gorge a mile away by road . . And, besides, I'm not sure what but a short distance only over the hill. I want myself. . . . But I'm horribly Spicer held his heavy revolver cocked afraid I'm going to end by losing you in his hand, but it was too near the Purvy house to risk a shot. He waited a fair-haired clerk waiting on her, they Horton stood silent. It was tea a moment, and then, rising, went on Asberry found a place at the foot "You won't lose us both, Drennie," would cloak him. Twenty yards below and gone about his business, but now he said, steadily. "You may lose your ran the creek-bed road, returning from he tossed under his patchwork quilt, choice-but, if you find yourself able its long horseshoe deviation. When and Brother Spencer expressed grave to fall back on substitutes, I'll be he had taken his position his faded doubts for his recovery. With his For once he did not meet her scru- as inconspicuously as a quail matches common consent, assumed something tiny, or know of it. His own eyes were dead leaves, and he settled himself to like the powers of a regent and took fixed on the slow swing of heavy, wait. Slowly and with infinite cau- upon himself the duties to which Shmgray-green waters. He was smiling, tion his intended victim stole down, son should have succeeded. but it is as a man smiles when he con- guarding each step, until he was in thing is quite all right. The girl of being at the front, he came from the heart of South territory to Spicer a year's study, was in the nature of looked at him with a choke in her the back. He, also, lay flat on his South's cabin was both astounding and a moderate triumph. With the art below the shoulder blades, not go down to inspect his work. It be more traveled than usual. and rode fast to the house of Spicer South, demanding asylum.

The next day came word that if Tamarack Spicer would surrender and stand trial in a court dominated by the Hollmans the truce would continue. Otherwise the "war was on."

The Souths flung back this message:

"Come and git him." But Hollman and Purvy, hypocritihouse was now a fortress, prepared for and Judge Hollman. siege. They knew that every trail thither was picketed. Also, they knew asked for troops and troops came. Their tents dotted the river bank bethe road, greet him once more as kins der a white flag went out after Tamarack Spicer. The militia captain in command, who feared neither feudist he had gone to the boss and "called He had brains, and he assured them for his time." Today he was paid off, that he acted under orders which knew that she would be met with dericould not be disobeyed. Unless they As he reflected on these matters a surrendered the prisoner, gatling guns would follow. If necessary they would be dragged behind ox teams. Many militiamen might be killed, but for each of them the state had another. from another section—over toward the If Spicer would surrender, the officer would guarantee him personal protection, and, if it seemed necessary, a change of venue would secure him trial in another circuit. For hours the clan deliberated. For the soldiers they felt no enmity. For the young captain they felt an instinctive liking.

echo of his former robustness by the ered in conclave, then, turning to the call of action, gave the clan's verdict. "Hit hain't the co'te we're skeered cellar of Hollman's store, an' give me won't never git into no co'te. He'll be murdered."

The officer held out his hand. "As man to man," he said, "I pledge you my word that no one shall take him except by process of law. I'm not

For a space old South looked into nothin' good about ye. I had ter cuss the soldier's eyes and the soldier looked back. "I'll take yore handshake on thet bargain," said the mountaineer, gravethey'd found out thet you'd done shot of finality, "ye've got ter go."

The officer had meant what he said. side, a cleanly aimed shot sounded he wants to." At Hixon Tamarack Spicer strolled from somewhere. The smokeless powfell and died.

South stood at the door of his cabin, he's at." a rifle barked from the hillside, and he fell, shot through the left shoulder by leb Wiley, in a truculent voice. a bullet intended for his heart. All but there was no man to get.

The Hollmans had used the soldiers as far as they wished; they had made sneered Caleb, "fer a feller thet won't to those narrows where they could not stronghold. They now refused to won't yet tell us whar he is now?" ewear out additional warrants.

A detail had rushed into Hollman's

"Tam'rack, Ye've Got to Go."

a woman buying a card of buttons and found the building empty.

Back beyond, the hills were impenetrable, and answered no questions, Old Spicer South would ten years of a huge pine where the undergrowth ago have put a bandage on his wound butternut clothing matched the earth counsel unavailable Wile McCager, by

That a Hollman should have been it with deliberate care on a point to mons for the family heads to meet those who could pay munificently, urday-"mill day"-and in accordance the novelty of being lionized. Then he pulled the trigger! He did with ancient custom the lanes would > man balanced a rifle across his pom. singing tunefully and making love mel. None the less, their purpose was not too seriously. grim, and their talk when they had gathered was to the point. others had been too courteous to ex- cott was doing the honors as host. press. With Spicer South bed-ridden and Samson a renegade, they had no ers for the pergola, where she took adequate leader. McCager was a solid refuge under a mass of honeysuckle. man of intrepid courage and honesty.

Then a lean sorrel mare came log- her in the studio. ging into view, switching her fly bitten a better way. This time they had the tail, and on the mare's back, urging circuit judge, through the sheriff, woman. Behind her sagged the two loaded ends of a corn sack. She was lithe and slim, and her violet eyes itors?" low the Hixon bridge. A detail un- were profoundly serious, and her lips might have been, for Sally Miller had come only ostensibly to have her corn nor death, was courteously received. ground to meal. She had really come to speak for the absent chief, and she sion. The years had sobered the girl, but her beauty had increased, though it was now a chastened type, which gave her a strange and rather exalted refinement of expression. Wile McCager came to the mill door as she rode up and lifted the sack from her horse.

"Howdy, Sally?" he greeted. "Tol'able, thank ye," said Sally, "I'm goin' ter get off.' As she entered the great half-lighted room, where the mill stones creaked on their cumbersome shafts, the hum So and no otherwise-so and no otherof discussion sank to silence. The Old Spicer South, restored to an girl nodded to the mountaineers gath-> miller, she announced: "I'm going to send for Samson." The statement was at first met with dead silence, then came a rumble of reproach in his voice. "But soon I indignant dissent, but for that the shall go. At least, for a time. I've girl was prepared, as she was prepared been thinking a great deal lately about followed. "I reckon if Samson was here," she to them, and my duty." said, dryly, "you all wouldn't think it was quite so funny." Old Caleb Wiley spat through his found herself instantly contending. bristling beard, and his voice was a "than it is the duty of the young eagle, quavering rumble.

"What we wants is a man. We hain't the nest where he was hatched." got no use fer no traitors thet's too al- "But, Drennie," he said, gently, "sup-"Tam'rack," he added, in a voice mighty damn busy doin' fancy work pose the young eagle is the only one of this interesting document was dister stand by their kith an' kin."

brakeman paused to add emphasis to He marched his prisoner into Hixon fully. "There's just one man living see? I've only seen it myself for a his conclusion-"that the next time ye at the center of a hollow square, with that's smart enough to match Jesse little while." come home, he lowed ter git ye plumb | muskets at the ready. And yet, as the | Purvy-an' that one man is Samboy passed into the courthouse yard, son. Samson's got the right to lead with a soldier rubbing elbows on each the Souths, and he's going to do it-ef der told no tale, and with blue shirts ingly, "don't go gittin' mad. Caleb cause I am one of them, gifts that house. He wished to be seen. So long and army hats circling him, Tamarack talks hasty. We knows ye used ter be Samson's gal, an' we hain't aimin' That afternoon one of Hollman's ter hurt yore feelin's. But Samson's an alluring waltz. For a little time henchmen was found lying in the road done left the mountings. I reckon they listened without speech, then the with his lifeless face in the water of ef he wanted ter come back, he'd the creek. The next day, as old Spicer a-come afore now. Let him stay whar

"Whar is he at?" demanded old Ca-

"That's his business," Sally flashed this while the troops were helplessly back, "but I know. All I want to tell camped at Hixon. They had power you is this. Don't you make a move and inclination to go out and get men, till I have time to get word to him. I tell you, he's got to have his say." "I reckon we hain't a goin' ter wait, them pull the chestnuts out of the let hit be known whar he's a-solournin' fire and Tamarack Spicer out of his at. Ef ye air so shore of him, why "That's my business, too." Sally's voice was resolute. "I've got a letter found himself forced into the lead store an instant after the shot which here-it'll take two days to get to turned in his saddle and talked back | killed Tamarack was fired. Except for | Samson. It'll take him two or three days more to get here. You've got to wait a week."

"Sally," the temporary chieftain spoke still in a patient, humoring sort of voice, as to a tempestuous child, "thar hain't no place ter mail a letter nigher then Hixon. No South can't that way about it." ride inter Hixon, an' ride out again. The mail carrier won't be down this way fer two days yit."

"I'm not askin' any South to ride into Hixon. I recollect another time when Samson was the only one that would do that," she answered, still scornfully. "I didn't come here to ask favors. I come to give orders-for him. A train leaves soon in the morning. My letter's goin' on that train." "Who's goin' ter take hit ter town in it." fer ye?"

"I'm goin' to take it for myself." Her reply was, given as a matter of course.

"That wouldn't hardly be safe, Sally," the miller demurred; "this hain't no time fer a gal ter be galavantin' around by herself in the night time. Hit's a-comin up ter storm, an' ye've got thirty miles ter ride, an' thirty-five back ter yore house."

"I'm not scared," she replied. "I'm goin' an' I'm warnin' you now, if you do anything that Samson don't like, you'll have to answer to him, when he She turned, walking very comes." erect and dauntless to her sorrel mare, and disappeared at a gallop.

"I reckon," said Wile McCager, breaking silence at last, "hit don't make no great dif'rence. He won't hardly come, nohow." Then, he added: "But thet boy is smart."

. Samson's return from Europe, after stomach and raised the already cocked alarming. The war was on without spensorship of George Lescott and the "Wilfred," she said, laying her hand pistol. He steadled it in a two-handed question now, and there must be coun- social aponsorship of Adrienne, he on his arm, "I'm not worth worrying grip against a tree trunk and trained cil. Wile McCager had sent out a sum. found that orders for portraits, from the left of the other man's spine just that afternoon at his mill. It was Sat- seemed to seek him. He was tasting

That summer Mrs. Lescott opened her house on Long Island early, and was not necessary. The instantaneous Those men who came by the wagon the life there was full of the sort of fashion with which the head of the road afforded no unusual spectacle, gayety that comes to pleasant places mistake. May I have till Christmas ambuscader settled forward on its for behind each saddle sagged a sack when young men in flannels and girls face told him all he wanted to know, of grain. Their faces bore no stamp in soft summery gowns and tanned He slipped back to his horse, mounted of unwonted excitement, but every cheeks are playing wholesomely and Samson, tremendously busy these days in a new studio of his own, had Old McCager, himself sorely per- run over for a week. Horton was, of plexed, voiced the sentiment that the course, of the party, and George Les- ria. Not yet possessing the racial im-

One evening Adrienne left the danc-

Samson South followed her. She dies of them. Then there are the cally clamoring for the sanctity of the but grinding grist was his vocation, saw him coming, and smiled. She was overcrowding and the unsanitary conlaw, made no effort to come and "git not strategy and tactics. The enemy contrasting this Samson, loosely clad ditions prevailing in most of the homes him." They knew that Spicer South's had such masters of intrigue as Purvy in flannels, with the Samson she had of tuberculosis sufferers; while at first seen rising awkwardly to greet least this much good arises from their

"You should have stayed inside and color of the law on their side. The him with a long, leafy switch, sat a Adrienne reproved him, as he came up. "What's the use of making a lion of you, if you won't roar for the vis-

"I've been roaring," laughed the were as resolutely set as Joan of Arc's man. "I've just been explaining to Miss Willoughby that we only eat the people we kill in Kentucky on certain days of solemn observance and sacrifice. I wanted to be agreeable to you, Drennie, for a while.

"Do you ever find yourself homesick, Samson, these days?" The man answered with a short and not his own words, but those of one more eloquent: 'Who hath desired the sea? Her excellent loneliness rather Than the forecourts of kings, and her uttermost pits than the streets where men gather.

His sea that his being fulfills? wise hillmen desire their hills."

"And yet." she said, and a trace of the argumentative stole into her voice. you haven't gone back." "No." There was a note of self-for the contemptuous laughter which 'my fluttered folk and wild.' I'm just beginning to understand my relation "Your duty is no more to go back who has learned to fly, to go back to

"That's a lie!" said the girl, scorn- could teach the others? Don't you

"What is it that-that you see now?" "I must go back, not to relapse, but to come to be a constructive force. I must carry some of the outside world "Sally," Wile McCager spoke, sooth- to Misery. I must take to them, bethey would reject from other hands." From the house came the strains of girl said very gravely:

"You won't-you won't still feel bound to kill your enemies, will you, Samson?"

The man's face hardened.

"I believe I'd rather not talk about that. I shall have to win back the confidence I have lost. I shall have to take a place at the head of my clan by proving myself a man-and a man by their own standards. It is only at their head that I can lead them. If the lives of a few assassins have to be forfeited I shan't hesitate at that. shall stake my own against them fairly. The end is worth it."

The girl breathed deeply, then she heard Samson's voice again: "Drennie, I want you to understand that if I succeed it is your success. You took me raw and unfashioned, and you have made me. There is no way of thanking you."

"There is a way," she contradicted. You can thank me by feeling just

"Then I do thank you."

The next afternoon Adrienne and Samson were sitting with a gayly chattering group at the side lines of the tennis courts.

"When you go back to the mountains, Samson," Wilfred was suggesting, "we might form a partnership. South, Horton & Co., Development of Coal and Timber.' There are millions

"Five years ago I should have met you with a Winchester rifle," laughed the Kentuckian. "Now I shall not."

"I'll go with you, Horton, and make a sketch or two," volunteered George Lescott, who had just then arrived from town. "And, by the way, Samson, here's a letter that came for you just as I left the studio."

The mountaineer took the envelope with a Hixon postmark, and for an instant gazed at it with a puzzled expression. It was addressed in a feminine hand, which he did not recognize. It was careful, but perfect, writing, such as one sees in a school copybook. With an apology he tore the covering and read the letter. Adrienne, glancing at his face, saw it suddenly pale and grow as set and hard as marble. Samson's eyes were dwelling with only partial comprehension on the script. This is what he read:

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

TAKE DISEASE FROM WHITES

Tuberculosis Among Alaskan Indians Has Been Laid at the Door of the "Paleface."

The great prevalence of all forms of tuberculosis among the Alaskan indians, as proved by a report by Dr. Emil Krullsh, is explained by the Journal of the American Medical Association as follows:

"Tuberculosis is a comparatively stowed upon them by the benevolent prime alsike, $9.30; sample alsike, 10 dies have done for me."—Mrs. MARY paleface along with firewater and cerbags at $7.50, 5 at $8. tain other blessings of civilization. Among these blessings must probably be counted scarlet fever, measles, influenza, whooping cough and diphthemunity which it takes many generations to acquire, the poor Indian suffers from them in greater degree than does the white, and more frequently misfortune that after the disease is well developed in them its progress (unless they are well cared for) is rapid, and death removes what would otherwise remain a menacing focus of infection."

Tuberculosis was one of the chief causes of the dying out of the Indians all over North America.

Two Famous Names.

"Thomas Atkins" is a newcomer compared with "Jack Tar" of the senior service. "Jack Tar" as a nickname for a sailor is first recorded in 1786, but sailors were known as "tars" for more than a hundred years before that. The laugh. Then his words came softly, name already appears in literature in the latter half of the seventeenth century. "Tar" may be short for "tarpaulin." Sailors were called "tarpaulins" early in the seventeenth century. Tarpaulin, of course, is canvas tarred to make it waterproof, and the sailors' hat made of that material, something like a sou'-wester, was called a tarpaulin. However that may be, British sailors have been "honest tars," "jolly tars" and "gallant tars" for 200 years. There is more steel and oil about a modern battleship than tarry rope. perhaps, but probably Jack will remain Jack Tar for another hundred years yet .- Manchester Guardian.

> First English Newspaper. The first newspaper printed in the English language, with its old English type and its quaint account of events in foreign countries, was a pamphlet there and throw away your life," she issued in 1621. Its title, "Corrant or Nevves from Italie, Germanie, France, and other places," is as curious as its contents. For many years it had been supposed that no copy of the Corrant was in existence, but recently a copy that knows how to fly-and suppose he covered.

MARKET QUOTATIONS

Live Stock, Grain and General Farm Produce.

Live Stock.

DETROIT-Cattle: Receipts, 636; market dull; best heavy steers, $7.50@ 8; best handy weight butcher steers $7@7.50; mixed steers and heifers, $6.25@6.75; handy light butchers, $6 @6:50; best cows, $5.50@6; butcher cows, $4.75@6.25; common cows, $4.25 @4.50; canners, $5@4; best heavy How you hated them, how you fought bulls, $6.25@6.50; bologna bulls, $5.25 @6; stock bulls, $4.50@5.

Veal calves: Receipts, 213; market

Sheep and lambs: Receipts, 3,068; market for sheep strong; one extra injured by them. fancy bunch of lights brought $5.40; lambs steady; several loads of the fancy sold at $6.90, but bulk of sales given today saves a sick child tomorwere at $6.85.

EAST BUFFALO-Cattle-Receipts, 5,600; market opened steady to 10c higher, closed weak with the advance all lost; choice to prime steers, $8.50@8.85; fair to good, $7.75@8.25; plain, $7.25@7.50; choice heavy butcher steers, $8@8.25; fair to good, $7.50 @7.75; best handy, $7.75@8; common to good, $6.25@7.50; yearlings, $7.75@ 8.75; prime helfers, $7.25@7.50; best butcher heifers, $7@7.35; common to good, $6@6.75; best fat cows, $6.25@ 6.60; good butcher cows, $5.50@6; medium to good, $4.75@5.50; cutters, 14.25@4.50; canners, $3.75@4; best bulls, $6.75@7; butchering bulls, $6@ 6.50; sausage bulls, $5.50@6; light bulls, $4.75@5.25.

Hogs: Receipts, 21,600; market 25 cents higher; heavy, $7.10@7.25; mediums, $7.15@7.30; yorkers, $7.25@ 7,40; ptgs, $7.25@7.35.

Sheep: Receipts, 19,000; lambs 15 25c lower; sheep steady; top lambs, $8@8.15; yearling, $6.50@7; wethers, $6@6.25; ewes, $5@5.50. Receipts, 800; market Calves.

steady; $11.50@12; fair to good, $9.50

@11; grassers, $4@4.50.

Grains, Etc. DETROIT-Wheat: Cash No. 2 red, $1.42; May opened with a loss of 1-2c at $1.42, touched $1.41, moved up to $1.44, declined to $1.43 1-2 and closed at $1.45; July opened at $1.28, lost 1-2c, advanced to $1.29 1-2, declined to $1.29 and closed at $1.30; No. 1 white, $1.39. Corn-Cash No. 3, 73 1-2c; No. 3 yellow, 1 car at 74c, 5 at 74 1-2c; No. 4 vellow, 73 1-2c.

Oats-Standard, 2 cars at 54 1-2c, 2 at 55c, closing at 55 1-2c; No. 3 white, 1 car at 54c, later quoted at 55c; No. 4 white, 54c. Rye-Cash No. 2, $1.18.

Beans-Immediate, prompt and January shipment, $2.95; February, $3.05; Cloverseed-Prime spot. $9.50;

Timothy-Prime spot, $3.40. Hay-No. 1 timothy, $16@16.50: standard timothy, $15@15.50; No. 2 timothy, $14@14.50; No. 1 mixed, $13 @13.50; No. 2 mixed, $10@12; light mixed, $15@15.50; No. 1 clover, $13@ 13.50; No. 2 clover, $10@12; rye straw, $7.50@8; wheat and oat straw., $7@ 7.50 per ton. Flour-In one-eighth paper sacks, per 196 fb., jobbing lots: Best patent, $7.30; second patent, $7.10; straight, $6.50; spring patent, $7.50;

rye flour, $6.50 per bbl. Feed-In 100-7b sacks, jobbing lots: Bran, $26; standard middlings, $28; fine middlings, $32; coarse cornmeal, $30; cracked corn, $34; corn and oat chop, $27 per ton.

General Markets.

Apples-Jonathan, $3@3.50; Baldwin, $2.50@2.75; Greening, $2.75@3; Spy. $3@3.25; Steele Red, $3.50; Ben Davis, $1.50@2 per bbl.; Western apples, $1.50@1.70 per box; No. 2, 40 @50c per bushel.

Cabbages-$1.75 per bbl.

Rabbits-$1.25 per doz.

Dressed Hogs-Light, 8 1-2c; heavy, 7@7 1-2c per tb. Live Poultry-Spring chickens, 13c; heavy hens, 13c; No. 2 hens, 8c; old roosters, 9@10c; ducks, 13@14c; geese, 12@13c; turkeys, 16@17c per pound. Dressed Calves-Fancy, 13@13 1-2c; common, $9@10c per 1b. Sweet Potatoes-Jersey kiln-dried,

$1.50@1.60; hampers, $1.50. Tomatoes-Hothouse, 20@25c per tb; Florida, $4@4 60 per crate and 90c per basket.

Honey-Choice to fancy new, white comb, 15@16; amber, 10@11c; extracted, 8@9c per Ib. Potatoes-Carlots, 30@33c per bu. in bulk and 36@40c per bu. in sacks; from store, 40@45c per bu.

Dressed Poultry-Chickens, 14@15c; hens, 13@14c; ducks, 14@15c; geese, 12@14c; turkeys, 20@21c per fb.

Cheese-Wholesale lots: Michigan flats, 14@14 1-2c; New York flats. 15 1-2@15 3-4c; brick, 14@14 1-2c; limburger, 15@16c; imported Swiss, 30@32c; domestic Swiss, 19@20c; ong horns, 15@15 1-2e; daisles, 15@ 15 1-2c per Tb.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR A CHILD'S BOWELS

cruel to force nauseating, harsh physic into a sick child.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on - castor oil, calomel, cathartics.

against taking them. With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of steady; best, $19@10.50; others, $7@ | physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delilate arrivals left over; best lambs, clous "California Syrup of Figs." Its $7.85@7.90; fair lambs, $7@7.35; light action is positive, but gentle. Millions to common lands, $6.50@7; heavy of mothers keep this harmless "fruit lambs, $6.75@7; fair to good sheep, laxative" handy; they know children $4.50@5.40; culls and common, $3@4. love to take it; that it never fails to Hogs: Receipts, 5,532; market 15@ clean the liver and bowels and sweet-20c lower than Tuesday; few extra en the stomach, and that a teaspoonful

> Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for bables, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Adv.

> > Their Pastors' Faults.

Warden-So you got rid of your pas-Elder-Yes; he was a good man, but he was too dry in his preaching-always giving us a history of the Jews.

But we don't like our new pastor much, either. Warden-What's the matter with him?

Elder-Well, he preaches with tears in his voice all the time. Warden-I see. The old pastor was too historical, and the new one too hysterical. Where a pretty girl is concerned it doesn't take an egotist to make eyes.

WOMAN IN BAD CONDITION

Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Montpelier, Vt. - "We have great faith in your remedies. I was very ir-table Compound has done me lots of good and I now feel fine. I am regular, my stomach is better and my pains have all March, $9.65; sample red, 25 bags at left me. You can use my name if you new infection among Indians, be $9, 18 at $8.75, 12 at $8.50, 9 at $8; like. I am proud of what your reme-

An Honest Dependable Medicine

It must be admitted by every fairminded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for nearly forty years, and to-day hold a record for thousands upon thousands of actual cures, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person. If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened. read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

The Pink of Health is every woman's right; but many are troubled with sallow complexions, headaches, backaches, low spirits-until they learn that sure relief may be found in BEECHAM'S PILLS ions of Special Value to Women with Every B Sold everywhere. In boses, 10c., 25c.

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S Remedy for the prompt relief of Asthma and Hay Fever. Ask Your druggist for it, write for FREE SAMPLE.

NORTHRUP & LYMAN CO., Ltd., BUFFALO, N.Y.

For General Farm Use Finely pulverised, made from highest high cal-cium stone. Quick shipments in closed cars

Morthern Lime Co., Patoskey, Mich.